FROM PORTLAND TO CALLAO.

[BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CALLAO, Peru, Nov 4 1875

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

When I left Portland I expected to remain a week or more in San Francisco and carried out this intention I have heard the San Franciscans boast that their summer although very disagreeable only lasted the three months of June July and August, which are allotted to that season by every almanac in the world, but certainly while I was there in the last of September there was as much need of a heavy overcoat and throat wrappings in the afternoon and evening as during any of the previous three months and also as much danger of eye affections from the gritty dust whirled about by the wind

On the passage from San Francisco to Panama after the first two days of fog and cold, immediately on passing Point Concepcion the agreeable change of climate was very perceptible Better and more sunshiny weather could not have been desired We remained twenty-four hours at San Pedro and for the moderate sum of $1 all those who wished to make the trip of 25 miles and back to the city of Los Angeles and view the orange lemon and walnut groves, and the vineyards had their desires fully gratified They can also have that opportunity even when the steamer only remains four hours by starting at 7 A M and returning at 1 P M

AT SAN DIEGO

We had the advantage of visiting the new town and obtaining a fine view of it from the cupola of the Horton House a handsome first class hotel, built of wood, around three sides of a hollow square with a pretty little patio or court-yard in the center in which was a flower garden One beauty about the hotel is that the halls and rooms, both public and private, are large and airy and with high ceilings so that the guests can enjoy as much balmy fresh air and healthful sunlight as possible This is a great resort for invalids from the Eastern States in the winter time especially those with consumptive tendencies or those suffering from that terrible disease. The town is regularly laid out on a large flat, and with the bay in front guarded by its bold prominent headlands and the green foot hills and blue San Diego mountains in the distance forms a charming picture One peculiarity which strikes the eye of a stranger is the almost entire absence of trees the pepper tree, the castor oil plant you might almost call it a tree from its size, being the only ones, with very few exceptions which are visible This is owing to the want of fresh water wells being very scarce These trees from being less dependent than others upon this necessary means of support flourish while the rest would perish from thirst We had two days of boisterous weather off the coast and in the Gulf of California and did not experience any really hot weather before reaching

ACAPULCO

Our passengers visited the old fort, the new cathedral (at least 100 years old) and the ruins of the old cathedral and convent A Catholic church with cheaper, uglier images I don't think I have ever seen The instrumental music was furnished by a neat organ such as we use in our Sunday schools in Portland The fort was well battered, and had all the guns (which were en barbette) dismounted and rendered useless by a French man of war during Maximilian's invasion. This as every thing else, is built of adobe or baked clay mixed with a kind of cement so that, instead of crumbling, it hardens with time and exposure A peculiar kind of tree grows here and lines the avenue from the town to the fort, which so exactly resembles a spread umbrella that it might with good reason be called the umbrella tree the leaves which are quite large, with the branches forming an almost complete protection from the sun and rain There are gutters in every street, the latter being paved with cobble stones and as this is the rainy season there is an abundance of running water in all In fact even in the dry season this never entirely fails The only difference I noticed in this town between this and my former visits is that the small boys have ceased diving from the end of the mole for dimes and quarters flung into the water by passengers in order to witness this performance The dread of sharks is greater now than formerly as several accidents happened at one time causing the priests to forbid the boys risking their lives in this way under the penalty of being refused the rights of burial in consecrated ground and sent by express train to the realms of his Satanic Majesty The number of beggars—old middle-aged and young fair and foul—is not diminished, but the professional gamblers, with their roulette and monte games and their variously marked tables for dice and teetotum formerly displayed directly in front of the pier, between that and the plaza have entirely disappeared the number of passengers having so diminished (from the competition of the Pacific railroad) that their vocation is no longer remunerative.

GUATEMALA

Old San Jose the principal Pacific sea port of the State of Guatemala, all the passengers were awakened at an early hour in order to obtain a fine view of the twin mountains, Volcano de Agua and Volcano de Fuego, or fire and water volcanoes near the base of which are situated the cities of Old and New Guatemala twenty five miles apart At this season of the year about sunrise is the only hour when they are entirely visible, their sides and summits being at all other times wreathed in clouds These tower up toward the skies between 15,000 and 16,000 feet are 100 miles inland and on a clear day can be seen nearly 100 miles at sea Off the port the cleft between them appears very small but at 8,000 feet above the level of the sea it is at least three miles wide and the volcanoes are entirely distinct The fire mountain still emits smoke at intervals, while that of water receives its name from the fact that in its extinct crater a large volume of water at one time existed which in consequence of an earthquake forced its way down its sides and overwhelmed 'Cuidad Real' or 'The Royal City' founded by the first Spanish conqueror of the country This was considered an especial visitation of Providence, one of its victims and they were not numerous, an unscrupulous ambitious woman who had murdered her husband, the Royal Governor and usurped his position her rule however only lasting two days being terminated by this disastrous convulsion of Nature The Spaniards then founded 'Old Guatemala,' about ten miles away and after several minor visitations and its almost entire destruction by an earthquake in 1775 the seat of Government was removed and the new city founded on the other side of the water volcano, the site of the old city being between the two mountains

The roadstead of San Jose is very open, being only partially protected by two headlands and the surf is at times extremely high Landing can only be effected in deep heavy launches kept from going broadside on to the beach by a cable attached to the shore and to a heavy buoy and running through chocks on the top of the stern and bow of the boat An iron pier 800 feet long extends out through the surf and facilitates the landing of passengers and cargoes

Our weather from Acapulco to Panama was always warm, the sky sometimes overcast and [illegible] showers occasionally breaking over our heads During the day we had to grin and bear it, dress as thin as possible, and attempt to keep cool but the nights in the tropics with a bright moonlight on the water are perfectly enchanting For the time being they almost seemed to make up for the discomforts of the day and were always anticipated with the greatest of pleasure

PANAMA BAY AND CITY

Early one Sunday morning Panama bay with its numerous high green wooded islands and corresponding headlands opened to our view We passed The Whale's Back so named from its fancied resemblance 'Taboga' its [illegible] is for its fine water dashing down from its sides in foaming cascades its pine apples, and for having been the site of the foundry and work shops of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company an English corporation now located at Callao Peru and came to anchor off Flamingo, in the midst of a small fleet of merchant steamers and men of war The houses on this island and a small cottage on a diminutive island near just large enough for a young couple, and appropriately called 'The Cottage by the Sea,' seemed as familiar as ever while the solitary tower of old Panama in the far distance and nearer the ramparts, towers and houses of the modern city glistening in the morning sunlight with the green hill of Mt Ancon overhanging the whole as if a natural protector on the land side from its enemies formed from their ancient appearance a particularly interesting picture not often seen by those inhabiting more temperate and newly settled regions On the seaside besides the sea wall, the town is defended from assault by a long reef extending out nearly two miles, one half of which is bare at low tide The old town, shortly after its settlement, was destroyed by buccaneers, and of the ruins only one tower remains standing whereupon the survivors of the massacre established the new town now some 200 years old The walls alone cost millions of dollars, and when the bills were presented to Philip of Spain, he exclaimed, 'What? Are these walls built of gold that they cost so much?' The city now has extended some distance outside the walls along the beach which is in the form of a semi circle at the farther end of which are the railroad and Pacific Mail offices From this place to the Plaza one half mile away run omnibuses every half hour Panama boasts of two hotels, the Grand and the Grand Central which have no superior or any equal on the coast south of San Francisco They both front upon the Plaza, and of the two the Grand, only completed within three months, is the more fashionable and only family hotel Here every room has its separate balcony so that the doors opening on this can be thrown open at night admitting all the fresh cool air possible while in the Grand Central there is a common balcony requiring the doors open upon it to be closed They are, however provided amply with lattice work which admits considerable fresh air and excludes entirely vision from the outside In addition the Grand has a large portico in front the most cool and comfortable lounging place for gentlemen possible and a separate side entrance for ladies, On the other hand the dining saloon of the Grand Central on the upper floor, is cooler and more airy, the parlor is furnished with bound illustrated papers and music the table according to my experience better than that of the Grand and the charges a little lower, from $2 50 to $3 per day, while those of the other are never less than $3 The principal currency here is Peruvian silver which averages from 15 to 20 per cent below American gold, 12 per cent being always allowed even on American silver, if demanded If not nothing is said about the difference of exchange

Panama bay is famous for its fresh fish of which the corbina and the Spanish mackerel are the best varieties the latter greatly resembling our fresh salmon, i e that of the Columbia river This, in a warm climate, is quite a treat to passengers who have lived for from one to three weeks on fresh meat, or at best on frozen fish in the way of animal food

There are about four churches in this place in actual operation the cathedral at the time undergoing repairs, and it seemed to me as if there were a revival of religion in comparison with its condition six years ago Our party naturally visited these and were differently affected according to their religious views at the sight of the pictures and representations of Christ, the saints and the Holy Virgin, all so sacred to Catholic eyes

Umbrellas are constantly in requisition here as a protection against either the sun or rain There is much less of the latter in Panama than in Aspinwall during the rainy season, while on the other hand the breeze is much fresher at Aspinwall in the dry The early morning and evenings are cool and pleasant but in the middle of the day the motto is grin and bear it i e, the heat

The foreign cemetery outside the walls is constantly kept in good condition by a man employed for the purpose The Spanish is surrounded by high thick walls, with a huge gate in the center of the front Some of the dead are buried in the ground and have monuments placed over them but most inside of niches in the wall after the New Orleans fashion, tier over tier, resembling the places for loaves in an immense baker's oven

ON TOWARDS CALLAO

On the southward journey for the first two days the sky was overcast with threatening showers and the weather warm The change upon crossing the line was decidedly perceptible One would naturally expect upon studying the atlas that the weather would be the hottest on the equator but in this part of the world at this time the beginning of summer, it is like our fall weather in September and October in Western Oregon—not quite cold enough for the thickest and too cold for the thinnest clothes In Ecuador considerable rain falls but in Northern Peru its place is supplied by very heavy fogs morning and evening which are generally dispersed by the afternoon trade winds So far excepting for a few hours in the afternoon there has been hardly any sunlight the weather having been overcast

I am compelled by the early closing of the mail to bring this letter to an abrupt termination and will write more fully of this country in the future

PARKER.

Joaquin Miller has been giving the story of his life to a correspondent of the Louisville Courier Journal He says he came from a God forsaken impecunious, wandering race that his father is a gentleman a tender soulful man so mild that he would not kill a squirrel so knit with peaceful instincts that he wouldn't participate in a Fourth of July celebration As near as he can tell the poet says he was born in Cincinnati in 1841 He ran away from his home in California was captured by the Modocs lived with them nearly five years loved them learned their language fought with them and escaped from them to San Francisco in 1858 He then went to Oregon studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1860 His practice of law was not worth a cent and he soon became the editor of a newspaper for a short time In 1866 he was elected District Judge of Oregon, and served in that position four years Of his marriage, he said 'I was married at Port Orford in 1863 I don't know of one pleasant moment after that for years Every man and woman will have his or her say about that part of my life If I read a certain book correctly there is but one who arbitrates finally But that sort of sentiment aside I leave the scandal to feed the world on if it loves it. Don't it? nor have I anybody's forgiveness to ask I may be mistaken but I don't think the world will ever look in Joaquin Miller's face expecting him to give it what he has buried' When asked about his first poem he replied 'I think my first poem my very first poem was babbled at my mother's breast for I never looked at her or think of her but I thought and thank in song I've a blessed mother' He is at work on a new poem, called 'Adrianne: A Dream of Italy'

Some notion of the extraordinary prices ruling in the city of London for real estate may be got from a recent sale to Messrs San[illegible] and Brothers the Ludgate Hill tailors The lease of the ground on which Nos [illegible] and 6 stand with the [illegible] has been sold for a sum which added to the capitalized ground rent represents [illegible] 480 per foot frontage for the freehold The situation is one of the best in London for general business purposes but land near the Bank fetches a still higher price

Wm Blake & Co of Boston have just cast a chime of nine bells for a church upon St Paul's Island in the Behring Sea not far from the Straits of Alaska and about 4000 miles from San Francisco The congregation are the Russian employes of the Alaska Commercial Company, and their faith is that of the Greek church There are about [illegible] houses on the island

CO OPERATION AMONG PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

In the proceedings of the National Grange of Patrons of Husbandry we find the following, which will be of interest to members of the order everywhere

The committee appointed by the National Grange to which all matter in reference to co operation was referred, after a careful consideration of the subject reported the following extensive series of resolutions and rules, which were adopted

ADVICE TO MEMBERS

First—All co operative associations should become incorporated

Second—Care should be taken that all records of accounts and vouchers are properly kept.

Third—Expose dishonesty and punish fraud

Fourth—Buy as far as practicable from the producer and manufacturer and sell to the consumer if possible

Fifth—Never depart from the principle of buying and selling for cash

Sixth—Take accounts of stock and make settlements quarterly

Seventh—Neither fear nor court competition

Eighth—Choose only men of undoubted integrity and ability for your officers and then give them your confidence

PREFACE

Practical co-operation does not necessarily imply buying by wholesale and distributing at cost, neither does its success depend upon buying from the producer and selling to the consumer These are principles of trade to be generally commended But successful co operation is based upon the policy of investing the profits of trade for the benefit of the purchaser

If a number of persons collectively, buy a stock of goods, and distribute them to each other at wholesale or cost prices, there is no substantial evidence of profit, but an invariable creation of prejudice throughout the mercantile community

If, however the same party dispose of their wares to themselves and others at usual retail rates and invest the profits in favor of those who purchase the transaction is at once pronounced legitimate and laudable and rapid accumulation of profit is the result Let us illustrate

If $100 worth of articles be sold at wholesale rates quarterly for consumption during the year there will be nothing at the close of that year to present either as an evidence of economy or thrift

But should that same amount be sold during the first quarter at retail, and the profits (that is, the difference between wholesale and retail prices) be invested in favor of the purchaser there would at the beginning of the second quarter be $110 to reinvest if the sales netted only 10 per cent This amount again invested in goods to be sold the second quarter at the same profit of ten per cent would yield $121 to be invested at the beginning of the third quarter, and the same operation repeated through the third quarter would increase the amounts to be invested at the beginning of the fourth quarter to $133 10 Continue this operation during the fourth quarter, and there would be, to begin the second year with, a capital of $146 41 Or, in other words an investment paying quarterly dividends of 10 per cent is more than 46 per cent per annum

It is not an extravagant assertion that in all mercantile transactions an exchange is seldom if ever made for less than 10 per cent profit Hence successful co-operation is dependent upon quick exchanges for cash, and cash only, and not upon wholesale buying or large marginal profits to secure extended credit

THE NEW SPEAKER

Mr Kerr, Speaker of the Forty fourth Congress, is a native of Pennsylvania having been born near Titusville, Crawford county, in 1827 The foundation of his education was laid in the common schools of Crawford county, but he subsequently studied at several academies, in the meantime teaching school and improving his mind by a course of study and profitable reading Having taken up his residence in Kentucky, Mr Kerr studied law in the University of Louisville, where he graduated with marked honors After a short residence in Kentucky he removed to New Albany, Indiana Here his talents and ability soon brought him into notice In 1856 he was elected to the Legislature of Indiana for two years In this position he enhanced his reputation and popularity both by votes and speeches His judgment was sound and he had the courage to vote for the right, no matter what influence was brought to bear upon him from interested parties. Besides serving in the Legislature Mr Kerr also acted at different periods as city attorney, and prosecuting attorney of Floyd county In 1862 he was chosen reporter of the Supreme Court of Indiana and edited with great ability and clearness five volumes of the reports of that body In 1862 Mr Kerr made his appearance on a national platform, having been chosen to the Thirty ninth Congress He was re elected in 1866, 1868, 1870 and 1874 In Congress the career of Mr Kerr was true to the principles which he professed He opposed all illegal schemes for abstracting money from the national treasury, insisted upon public officers being held to a strict account, urged the discontinuance of needless office-holders, and recommended bringing the government back to the early rules of honesty and economy Being an impressive speaker, and at all times fortified with facts, Mr. Kerr commanded the attention of the House whenever he spoke His record is that of an honest, upright and consistent Democrat, firm in his principles without partisanship and no suspicion of venality or trickery has ever attached to him He has the courage to say no when that is the right word—an admirable qualification for a Speaker of the House of Representatives at this time In relation to the personality of Mr. Kerr it was thus sketched by a late Washington correspondent 'He is tall thin and spare. His face is thin and angular His eyes, a bluish gray, glint and glow from under a pair of strong, projecting eyebrows His nose is long, sharp, and quivers when excited, like a wild man's. The lower part of his face falls away in a sort of a lap robe of a beard of a sandy-brown color His forehead climbs up bleak and bare until the top of the skull is reached; here you find a slight undergrowth of sandy hair that becomes a thick hedge low er about the ears The complexion of the man is sallow (the bilious climate of Indiana has done that for him), but when animated in debate the rich blood jumps up under his skin until he has as much color as a coy virgin first telling the story of her love Kerr always dresses in a suit of rusty black that flops and clings to him after the fashion of garments once made very wet and since hung up to dry The rusty color of his clothes and the absence of bright positive tints about his face give Mr Kerr a decidedly rusty appearance, but it is the rust of steel Strike against him and you never fail to draw fire and the proper ring This is Michael C Kerr who will preside over the most important session of Congress that has been held within the last decade

AN ILLUMINATION OF THE PYRAMIDS

Mr Russell sends to the London Times the following description of an illumination of the Pyramids on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales to Egypt

"A sumptuous dinner was provided in the chalet or kiosque that was built for the convenience of the Empress of the French at the time of her visit After dinner came the event of the evening—the illumination of the Great Pyramid. It was a bold undertaking—the lighting up of a pyramidal mass four hundred and sixty feet high presenting two sides each seven hundred and thirty feet long and broken into constantly recurring shadows by over two hundred courses of stone each forming a ledge or platform round the pyramid However complete success rewarded the courage of the two Pashas First Bengal fires placed at short intervals around the pyramid were lighted, and each stone shone out as clear as day Rockets Roman candles, and other more complicated feux d'artifice filled the air with many colors Then lights of all imaginable colors which had been placed on every course of stone and up each angle of the pyramid were so simultaneously lit that the blaze seemed to run up the vast mass and in a moment envelop it in one great blaze of variegated fire while magnesium wire shone out bright and clear from the apex Every sort of firework crackled and blazed and made cascades of colored stars in the heavens The sight was marvelous The Prince and his suite expressed themselves greatly pleased But still more emphatic was the hum of approbation from hundreds of Bedouins who were squatted about like statues in white drapery on the sand Soon all was gray and cold again and the desert and Pyramids and the lonely sad eyed Sphinx were left behind in the gloom while the royal party galloped off to their palace to dress for a special representation at the opera house given by the French theatrical company lately arrived in Cairo for the winter season

The material resources of Southern Oregon are almost unlimited, but owing to the lack of capital many of them remain comparatively undeveloped Among the valuable items that have not been developed is that of marble Marble quarries are found in Southern and Western Oregon the principal of which have been found in Jackson and Josephine counties, and are said to be valuable for building purposes Owing to the expense of exporting it, the marble cannot be utilized except in the section in which it is found From what we learn the marble has a fine grain and is susceptible to a high polish It has a white lustre, slightly clouded with what appears to be oxide of iron, which adds much to the beauty of its finish

TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 28, 187

WE APOLOGIZE TO OLD ZACK

The Department of the Interior when first organized was considered one of the least important in the administration of the Government. It has grown to be the second in actual interest to the people. The Treasury Department alone has greater influence upon the domestic affairs of the country. The Patent Office, the Indian Bureau, the Public Lands Service, the Census Bureau, the Railway affairs are all branches of this Interior Department, and all come under the supervision of the Secretary thereof.

The country was glad when Mr Columbus Delano gave up this responsible position. He had gotten into bad odor and there appeared too much room to believe he had allowed the business entrusted to his office to go at loose ends. It came to be generally accepted that he neglected his duties or was incompetent to their performance. Some people harbored even worse suspicions, but we must confess as to this idea there always appeared to us to be no sufficient evidence to found a reasonable suspicion upon, much less to justify a definite opinion against Delano. But he had to retire. He ought to have retired sooner than he did, out of deference to the manifest feelings of the whole country.

The appointment of ex Senator Zach Chandler to be Mr Delano's successor was received in anything but a flattering manner. Nobody questioned his ability, nor in a business, or rather in a pecuniary way, so far as we observed, his honesty. But his appointment was not well received for reasons which probably most people think they know, and which most people would find it a little difficult to define. We have before us Secretary Chandler's first report made before the meeting of Congress. He had of course little time to make himself familiar with the office as he was appointed only a short time previously. Allowance would be made on this score, if allowance were necessary in examining the document. But it is unnecessary. As he took hold of the work of cleaning out the stables so he took hold of the general affairs of the Department, and his report is as agreeable a disappointment to fair minded people who shared in the common prepossession against him as was his manner of taking hold of the crooked subordinates in the Indian bureau. He has the various subjects that come under his supervision well in hand, and takes vigorous common sense views of them. The Indian service, for instance, he treats in such a manly way as commends itself at once. Without adopting the views of those who think that religious teaching and moral suasion are all the forces necessary to restrain the Indians from acts of savagery, he avoids, on the other hand, the inhuman position taken by many from whom better things ought to be expected, that all efforts to civilize the Indians or improve their condition are futile, and that the only duty of our government is to smooth their way to ultimate extinction and hasten them on that journey. Chandler thinks the policy pursued hitherto is not a failure, but there is much reason for encouragement and for further effort. He considers that much real progress has been made notwithstanding the contrary opinion that has seemed to gain general currency. All through the secretary's report appears the same practical good sense and moderation. "Old Zack" is evidently going to prove to all those who criticized his appointment that he is not the man they set him down for. We confess to have been among those who were strongly prepossessed against him and we further confess that our prejudices are giving way as we watch his course.

COUNTING THE ELECTORAL VOTES

Senator Morton will, it is said, urge the passage of his bill, the same introduced by him in last Congress, to abolish the twenty first joint rule of Congress. The rule provides that when the two houses come together to count the electoral votes and a Senator or Representative objects to the votes of a State, or any of them, the houses must separate and vote without debate on the objection. If the objection is sustained by a majority vote of either house the vote or votes objected to are thrown out. Under this rule four of the electoral votes of Georgia were thrown out in 1873, the objection being overruled by the Senate but sustained by the House. All the votes of Arkansas were thrown out, the Senate sustaining the objection and the House overruling it. Both houses sustained objection to the votes of Louisiana and they were thrown out. By the rejection of electoral votes upon grounds no matter how trivial the election of President may be thrown into the House of Representatives. It will thus be seen that the House have it in their power to usurp the power to elect a President under color of legal right. That there are dangers attending the enforcement of this rule, no one can dispute. Morton's bill provides that no electoral vote shall be thrown out except upon a concurrent vote of both houses, and also allows short debate on objections. The bill passed the Senate at the last session, but was not reached in the House.

One of the least likely of all the things in the world which would be said of Tammany by any one who [illegible] ever read its charter and [illegible] its reputation is that it is a [illegible] organized for the purpose of [illegible] sick and indigent members and their widows and orphans. Yet such it is. The act incorporating it was passed by the Legislature of New York in April [illegible] with the purpose of enabling the corporation the better to carry into effect the [illegible] purposes of [illegible] relief to indigent and distressed members of the association, their widows and orphans, and [illegible] who may be found proper objects [illegible] intended [illegible] as to permit the organization to acquire [illegible] real estate. The society having become odious to the people of New York, it was attempted [illegible] to be taken of its violation of the [illegible] of its charter [illegible] itself. In the Dartmouth College case the Supreme Court of the United States held that the legislature could not alter in any material respect a charter granted to a corporation without the consent of the corporation, but general principles were laid down as to the terms and nature of eleemosynary corporations, in effect holding that they were subject to dissolution and surrender of franchises by willful misuse or non-use. The New York Herald says:

Tammany has notoriously misused its franchises. "Its funds have been grossly mismanaged as well as misapplied and thereby the poor have been robbed of accumulations that should have been husbanded for their succor. Its only administration of any kind of charitable relief has been in the way of distributing offices or labor tickets to political beggars. It has confused its membership and functions with the membership and functions of the general committee of a political party or faction; in a single phrase it has both non used and misused its franchise."

Some of the measures proposed by the Sultan in the way of reform are:

1. A reformation of the councils, so as to secure proper representation of Christian interests.
2. Publication of judicial decrees in the language of the province in which such decrees are pronounced.
3. Transformation of tithes into land tax.
4. Modification of the road service regulations so that the people shall not be obliged to work out of their own districts.
5. The formation of a corps of Christian and Mussulman tax collectors and police.

These measures might if strictly executed remove some of the causes of discontent but they would not furnish a complete remedy. The fact is there is no class in Turkey capable of executing the reforms. The policy of the Porte is in the hands of native Mussulmen and the maintenance of order is left to the [illegible] the very men whose oppression has made the Turkish provinces what they are. There does not seem to be any hope for the peaceful solution of the trouble except by the intervention of Foreign powers and that intervention will doubtless end the trouble by causing the disappearance of Turkey herself as a nation.

A gentleman sends us from Milwaukee an account of a practical joke practised at that place upon an itinerant spirit medium. It is stated the professor, among other exhibitions of the performances of disembodied spirits at his bidding, was accustomed to have the spirits ring a bell. The bell was previously placed in position and the room darkened when the bell would be rung violently and according to the professor without his touching it. Some member of the test committee, being a little skeptical as to the exact process by which the bell was rung, put some fresh paint on the handle of it. The bell rang in usually good style, but when the light was turned on it was discovered that the professor had paint on his hands. They do say he was about as badly flabbergasted as any victim ever was.

The Mercury quotes approvingly the remark of another Democratic organ, that the stealing of $130 000 by a member of the canal ring of New York is explained by the fact that he was a Republican official." Wonder if Tweed was also a Republican official. And Connolly. And Garvey. Their thefts ran up into the millions. If these Democratic organs mean to be understood as saying that the fact that the canal thief referred to did not take a million or two instead of a hundred and thirty thousand is attributable to the fact that he was a Republican instead of a Democratic official we shall not quarrel with them, though we should not care to make the assertion ourselves. Is that it, gentlemen? If not what are you going to do with Tweed and his Democratic confederates?

Just before the Senate adjourned for the Christmas holidays a resolution was adopted by that body declaring Mr Ferry President of the Senate. As the President of the Senate would become President of the United States in case Gen Grant should die before the expiration of his term of office, it becomes important in that event there should be no room for question either whether there was a President of the Senate at all or who held that office. Mr Ferry was President pro tem during the life of Mr Wilson. By virtue of this resolution of the Senate he becomes the President of the Senate without qualification.

The spirits have been giving information as to the whereabouts of Tweed. A communication has been received from the spirit of a deceased thief named James Thompson as follows:

Yes, I am here and I told you the truth. He is there in his house. I want to say that his wife is his jailer. They enter his house the third door from the right of his house going up the street from the North river as near as I can make it.

JAMES THOMPSON, of Utica.

CITY.

AN ALLEGED THEFT.—Quite an exciting episode occurred yesterday afternoon on board the steamer Dixie Thompson while the boat was on the way to Portland from Astoria. Among the passengers was a colored lady. While the passengers were engaged discussing dinner which was at about 1 o'clock P M, the colored lady remarked to the steward she had a presentiment that some person had robbed her. This announcement created considerable sensation among the passengers as might well be supposed. The lady said she had left $140 in her valise when she came to dinner and she felt certain that some of it had been taken. She had it seems left the valise on the floor of her stateroom unlocked. To prove the truth of the presentiment search was at once instituted by the steward and [illegible] when the lady opened her valise and counted her money she alleged had vanished. Mr Moran, the steward, knew in all reason that no person had been in the room excepting the lady herself and some of the boys employed about the boat so he determined to sift the matter to the bottom and discover the thief. He called the purser, the waiters the boys and the passengers together, and proposed that every one present should be searched. First the purser was to search his (the steward's) person, he was to search the purser and then both were to search the others and that everything might be done fairly a lady passenger was to search the woman claiming to have lost the money. This plan was readily acceded to by all except the colored lady who indignantly refused to be searched. Mr Moran told her that it would be nothing more than right, but she declared she should let the matter drop before she would submit to any such a thing. The steward then said that the whole affair would have to terminate there, and that she must not complain again about the matter, as the proposition submitted was perfectly fair. So further investigation of the case was brought to a summary close, every one retiring with his and her own conclusions about the alleged minus coin. For a short time the affair occasioned no small stir among those on board.

COUNTY ROAD THROUGH THE CORNELIUS PASS.—During last week a proposed county road was viewed out and surveyed, from the Washington county line, through the Cornelius pass to the river road, about 11 miles below Portland. The whole distance from the Washington county line to the river road is four miles. The steepest grade on any portion of the road will be five feet in one hundred. On the north half, the steepest grade will be three feet in one hundred. A grade of four feet in one hundred as the maximum could readily be obtained, but in the opinion of the viewers, it would unnecessarily increase the length of the road. The grade as fixed is much better than that of any present road across the mountain. The road will not be a difficult one to open. Several bridges will be required, but none of them will exceed fifty feet in length. We understand that the settlers propose to commence opening a trail at once along the line of the survey at their own expense. The road is now open from Hillsboro to the county line. When the connecting link is completed it will prove of great benefit to the settlers along the line of road, the German settlement northwest of this city and the people in the northern part of Washington county.

CHRISTMAS ANNIVERSARY.—The annual celebration of the Independent German School Sunday evening, was largely attended and the close and delighted attention of the audience during the exercises gave ample warranty of their successful performances. The exercises consisted of recitations and dialogues, alternately, German and English. Their rendition reflected much credit both upon teachers and pupils. There was no hesitancy, no "fighting the air," but all the pieces were spoken clearly, distinctly, with the [illegible] invariably at the right time and place. Several German parts were rendered by American children with the pure accent of the nation, thereby showing that the shrub can be trained to bear in their full strength and beauty Anglo German flowers. The Christmas tree was a decided success. At the close of the exercises the association through Mr John Reisacher, as a token of their appreciation presented Mr and Mrs Harold with a set of beautiful books. The whole entertainment was truly enjoyable, and we left repeating to ourselves,

"—and still the wonder grew,
That such little heads could carry all they knew."

PLEASANT REUNIONS.—Wide Awake sends the following from Salem: Among the pleasantest reunions at Salem on Christmas day was that at the residence of Hon. J. R. Moores. It was almost exclusively a family affair, and twenty two hungry participants answered at the dinner roll call. The table was loaded down with the good things of life, and "too full for utterance" was a leading assertion. In the evening the party adjourned to the residence of Hon Jno H Moores, on State street where the Christmas tree attracted the attention of the young and old as well. Vocal and instrumental music social games and general converse made the hours fly rapidly along. The tree was loaded down, and every one present was remembered. The gifts in many instances, were rich and costly, while in other cases were calculated to amuse. The whole affair was a pleasant one indeed and highly enjoyed by every one present.

THE SHIP BEECHWOOD.—This vessel which has just left this port for Liverpool had, taking all things into consideration about the best dispatch of any ship ever loaded here. She arrived at the dock on Saturday the 18th, at 10 o'clock A. M and began to discharge her ballast in the afternoon. She was discharged, loaded and cleared before night on Thursday, carrying a full cargo, 1,321 tons down the river. Her draught was eighteen and one half feet and she reached Astoria in charge of that able and well known pilot Phil Johnson, without touching the sand. Messrs Hewett & Co who loaded her, had excellent success with the Beechwood but it was greatly owing to the energy which characterized all their movements in commercial matters. As an instance of what can be done in a short time and illustrating the depth to which vessels can load here at this stage of the water, the fact is of public importance.

HUGE LAND SLIDE.—The late heavy rains have so loosened the earth at the big cut along the westside track, that an immense quantity of dirt came down on the road some time during Sunday night. The northern bound train yesterday morning came to the other side of the slide and was compelled to halt. However, the company here was apprised of the obstruction in time and a locomotive and coach were sent up the road to this end of the slide. Both trains reached the opposite end of the slide about the same time so that the passengers and freight were speedily transferred from one to the other and very little delay was occasioned. For the distance of over a hundred yards the track is buried and considerable labor will be required to remove the obstruction. Up to 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the slide had not been removed and the passengers were compelled to make the [illegible] on the return train.

NEARLY LOST HIS WATCH.—A few moments after the Astoria boat reached the O. S. N. Co's wharf last evening one of the passengers who had stepped on the dock as soon as the steamer touched came running down in a state of great excitement declaring that he had lost his watch. Search was at once instituted, when the gentleman's watch was found lying on top of his valise which surmounted a heap of freight on the lower deck. It seems that he had laid his watch down on the valise in his haste to reach the wharf and then suddenly forgot what he had done with it. He was overjoyed at having the supposed missing property restored to him and will probably exercise a little sound [illegible] next time.

NEW YEARS RECEPTIONS.—A number of ladies from the several churches of the city have united upon a plan of receiving their friends on New Years Day at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association on First street near Alder. Arrangements are made for a collation and all young men are invited to call. The reception hours will be from 1 to 9 P M. In the evening there will be music and readings for the entertainment of visitors. The co-operation of ladies generally is invited and contributions to the collation will be thankfully received at the rooms [illegible] o'clock in the morning of New Years Day.

ELOCUTIONARY.—The readings given by Mr Henderson at the Unitarian Chapel last evening were very well attended notwithstanding the exceedingly bad weather. There were a number of persons present competent to criticise performances of this character, and we believe Mr Henderson satisfied all present that he possesses elocutionary power in no ordinary degree. We did not consider some of his selections as Bret Harte's "Chiquita and Jim" from the same author as happy ones. In fact we are no admirer of Bret Harte's style of telling things and though Mr Henderson may have read them according to rule if there be a rule for such things they were not as pleasing to his auditors as were his selections from Reade and other American poets or Shakespeare. Mr Henderson's rendition of the Grave Diggers scene in Hamlet, was one of his best efforts during the evening and to hear him in this alone was worth the price of admission. The scene from Macbeth was also good as was the Church Bells and The Closing Scene. The recitations of The Drunkard and the Vagabond both in character, were very well received. On the whole Mr Henderson has a smooth, deep voice under good control, and with more careful study and a little more ingenuity in his selections, would be successful as a public elocutionist. As an amateur reader he is certainly one of no ordinary merit.

GO FOR THEM.—At present the city is overrun with low and disreputable characters who prowl about the streets day and night possessing no visible means of support. These irresponsible vagabonds are a pest and a nuisance to the community which they infest and ought to be driven off to a more congenial locality. They are like so many vultures waiting for unsuspecting and unwary victims upon whom to pounce. These fellows should be dispersed or made to feel the potent arm of the law. We are gratified to note that the police have lately laid their clutches on several of these fellows of the baser sort and jugged them. "Vag 'em or compel them to leave the city, is the unqualified verdict of this community.

A MILD HINT.—One of Portland's most affable young men called on his sweetness the other evening supposing the "stern parent" was absent from home, and consequently expected a long and pleasant visit. All went "merry as a marriage bell" until about 10 30, when our hero was abashed and startled to see the old gentleman come into the parlor candle in hand, shoes off, with his dressing gown on and inquire for "the morning paper," which having been given him he retired as innocently as all out doors. The young man is modest and retiring, but his perception is extensive. The "adieus and good nights" were plaintively and regretfully uttered, then the fond youth departed in good order.

A FETE.—To night the pupils connected with St Stephen's chapel, St Mathew's mission school and the orphanage, will combine and hold a grand festival and Christmas tree. The festivities will be held in St. Stephen's chapel. Promptly at 6 o'clock this evening the tree will be illuminated, preparatory to ushering in the other exercises of the occasion. There will be some excellent singing provided and it is expected that this occasion will be much enjoyed. The rooms as usual will be decorated in an elegant manner, as those in charge understand thoroughly that work. The occasion takes place a few days after other festivities of like character, but that fact will not detract from the pleasure attending it.

SUPPOSED TO BE DROWNED.—Last Saturday night one of the deck hands employed on board the tug C J Brenham started from a saloon in Astoria, to go aboard the vessel. He was considerably intoxicated at the time, and as nothing has been seen or heard of him since, it is more than likely that he is drowned. The night was extremely dark, and he doubtless stepped off the wharf, and being stupefied with liquor, was not able to shout for assistance and so miserably perished. Sunday a number of persons were engaged in dragging for the body without recovering it. Up to the hour the steamer Dixie Thompson left Astoria yesterday morning, no traces had been discovered of the missing man.

DEATH AT THE ASYLUM.—Yesterday morning Mr L P Tournel, an inmate at the Asylum, died quite suddenly at that institution. Deceased was formerly engaged in business in Portland, being a member of the firm of Verdier & Tournel, coffee and spice dealers. About two years ago Mr Tournel became insane, and his removal to the Asylum was considered necessary, since which time he has been a constant inmate. Mr Tournel was a native of France, and aged 39 years. The funeral will take place this morning at 10:30 o'clock, from the residence of B Verdier, corner of A and Seventh streets. The usual services will be held at the Catholic church.

RETIREMENT OF MR. BUDD.—It has been announced that Mr D. L. Budd has resigned his position as superintendent of the street railway. His careful management made the enterprise a success, and we predict it will be difficult for the company to fill his place. It requires peculiar qualifications to carry on a business consisting of so many small matters of detail as that of managing a street railway and upon these small matters being carefully attended to, along with the larger ones, depends the success of the business.

SOCIAL DANCE.—Last evening a social dance was given at Turne Halle, by the members of the Turn Verein Society. On the occasion a Christmas tree was lighted, and other interesting amusements took place. A most enjoyable time was experienced.

CONVEYED TO SALEM.—This morning the mortal remains of the late Mrs Melvina R Grant, beloved consort of Robert Grant, will be conveyed by special train to Salem for interment. The train will leave the eastside depot at 10 30 A M.

RASPBERRIES.—A bunch of tame raspberries was placed upon our table yesterday by Mr Paul Lammereth, which were plucked from his garden Park and Morrison streets. They were fully matured though not numerous.

NEXT SOCIABLE.—The sociable in connection with the East Portland M E church will be held to morrow (Wednesday) evening at Mrs Elizabeth Johnson's residence on I street. All are cordially invited to attend.

ADMITTED.—In the State circuit court yesterday Louis Krieger a native of Germany was admitted to citizenship.

Take the usual lunch to-day at Fabre & Barnes Central Market. They do it well.

Interview Tom O'Brien about the latest invoice of cigars. He has a capital lot.

Skating every evening at Wood's museum. Admission 25 cents, use of skate 25 cents.

Mr Wightman's stay in Portland is limited. Satisfactory and immediate relief from piles. Room 45, St Charles Hotel. See ad in OREGONIAN of December 23 1875.

A MISTAKE.—It is quite a mistake to think by the late telegram that the Wheeler & Wilson factory was destroyed, as it was but a small part of it. The agent informs us that he is still able to supply this noted machine to those wishing them for holiday presents. We should say so, by the quantity of freight received and shipped from the Portland office.

If you have not purchased your winter suit do so now as the chances to buy cheap are very great. No better place to buy than at Beck & Waldman's, Front and Washington streets. This firm makes a specialty of youths' suits.

The new feature of a skating rink at Wood's Museum makes lots of fun for the gay and old. Crowded every night.

Wood has hit upon a popular cord. If you want to see a sight, and laugh until your sides ache go to Wood's Museum.

Elegant French China dinner and tea sets containing 121 pieces of the finest quality, of our own importation. Price $35.
W. JACKSON & CO

The steamer Ajax brought another large invoice of goods for BECK & WALDMAN who are determined to keep their customers supplied with the very latest styles as introduced in the San Francisco market. It is really astonishing to see the immense stock carried by this house when we consider the fact that these are dull times and people are naturally disposed to [illegible] But the firm have made their purchases at an advantage and can offer their customers rare bargains. Call and satisfy yourself and recollect the place. Front and Washington streets.

KOHN, and who don't know Jno R [illegible] the pioneer clothier is opening every week something new for the inspection of his customers. His stock will compare with any and as to prices—well everybody knows that he will do the handsome thing with those who call on him. You will find him ably assisted by clerks prepared to accommodate with anything in his line. [illegible] the house First and Morrison streets. Look at the new style overcoats just opened.

Success in business has induced Prof. A. L. Francis to abandon teaching altogether. He will make regular trips through all parts of Oregon and Washington Territory. Patrons can be sure of first class work as he comes highly recommended by Gray's Music Store where he has a regular engagement. Also by the celebrated Pianist Frank Gilder. NO BETTER BLOOD PURIFIER can be obtained than Dr Jayne's Alterative. It contains no concealed poison, no mercurial or other metallic preparations, but is a combination of those articles which long experience has proven to possess the most efficient alterative and deobstruent properties. It acts directly on the blood, stimulates the digestive and secretive organs and enables the Liver, Kidneys &c to perform their proper functions. Its efficacy is established by its long sustained popularity and by the many cures it has effected. A number of which have [illegible] year in Dr Jayne's Almanac. Read them and be convinced.

The Spring Crop of Coughs and Colds is heavy and will ripen into a terrible harvest of disease and death unless rooted out with the best fuel [illegible] HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR. Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

"A Slight Cold," Coughs.—Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough or slight cold which would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, often attacks the lungs. Brown's Bronchial Troches give sure and almost immediate relief.

A Valuable Medical Treatise.—The edition for 1876 of the sterling Medical Annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready and may be obtained free of cost of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. It contains with the simplest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items &c, are prepared with great care and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1876 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors Messrs Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

The week's proceedings very dull in the local circles nor is there likely to be much renewal of activity until the new year begin The monetary situation is unchanged since our last review The principal business transpiring at the banks is that incident to the closing up of matters for the old year and the preparations for the commencement of the new Settlements that must be made are drawing off a goodly proportion of the surplus funds in the market and the closeness induced is more generally felt than for some time past among the mass of small traders The requirements of the season at the banks is limited and met with a good degree of readiness at the usual rates Good commercial paper is not largely offering and few loans are usually asked so near the close of the year

Eastern papers say a marked feature of the money market there is the absence of the fall stringency that has been so marked in preceding years It is furthermore a sign that the full prosperity of trade and industry has not yet been recovered While a stringent loan market is hardly to be desired a closer competition among borrowers and a more eager call upon the ample accommodations of the banks than have been seen this year would be considered encouraging It is a familiar law of finance that high rates of interest go with good times The wholesale business of this city has been very fair this fall but has not been such as to give the banks much to do The indication that we are on the eve of a great development of our export trade, and consequently of almost all branches of manufactures, has much more promise of profit in it to capitalists and bankers who will be called on to furnish the funds for extensions of enterprise new and old

Domestic Produce.

This branch of trade opened to-day with the dullest aspect for some time and transactions of all kinds have been very limited the principal dealers appearing to be taking a sort of rest after Christmas In wheat the latest private advices from Liverpool indicate a still declining market though quotations here and in San Francisco exhibit but little change Ours is undoubtedly weak at $1 70 and some buyers go no further $1 65 with their outside figures at 2½ cents per cental more The English market being so low at this time is contrary to the expectation of buyers and they are moving with a good deal of caution Freights are reported a little weaker and the charters at £4 will hardly prove remunerative The market is well supplied with all leading articles of domestic produce, and in some lines the tendency of prices in a few days more will very probably be downwards. Should we pass another fortnight without cold weather we may witness a material decline in many commodities of minor importance Until the holidays are past however we anticipate a light movement and no important fluctuation

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Oriflamme from San Francisco, will be due here to-morrow night.
